Fort Edmonton upgrades would cost $150M-plus

Proposal. Park hopes to have upgrades ready for Canada's 150th

RYAN
ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

Fort Edmonton Park's future plans to better highlight the city's past will cost more than $150 million, according to a report going to city councillors next week.

Councillors will review the proposal Monday. It calls for an Indigenous People's Experience, an expanded Hotel Selkirk and midway, and significant upgrades to the park's utilities, all to be completed before Canada's 150th birthday in 2017.

Bill Demchuk, executive director of the Fort Edmonton management company, said the expansion is about better telling the area's history, especially as it relates to Aboriginal people.

"We have been telling a story, part of the Aboriginal story, for years in a small way, but from our perspective it hasn't been in a meaningful or respectful enough way," he said.

The Indigenous People's Experience would tell stories about the Aboriginal settlers of Edmonton. The midway would include space for new rides and the hotel expansion would add 22 guest rooms and a large ballroom that could accommodate weddings.

Demchuk said the additions could help improve the park's bottom line, but they will also tell more of the city's story.

"This isn't a for-profit business," he said, "but this whole idea is about being able to share more with Edmontonians and visitors."

He said he's aware the city has real budget pressures, but the park would aim to have help from the provincial and federal governments, as well as doing its own fundraising.

He said the utility upgrades are probably the most pressing concern.

"Some of those utilities that are below ground are past their best-before date," he said.

Coun. Mike Nickel said he supports the project, but he doesn't think the city, or the other levels of government, will have those funds in the next few years.

"We don't have the cash to play with," he said.

Tight budget

"Their timeline is just too short." Coun. Mike Nickel

Deadly crash

Man acquitted after fatal crash

A judge has acquitted an Edmonton man charged in a crash that killed a Good Samaritan two years ago.

Andrew Green, who was 46, was struck and killed on the side of the Anthony Henday highway in June 2012, after pulling over to help a stranded driver.

Kieran Porter, 37, was charged with careless driving and hit and run.

Justice Donna Shelley said Thursday that the Crown couldn't prove Porter was the driver who struck and killed Green.

The decision came down to evidence that was deemed inadmissible because the judge determined Porter's charter rights had been violated.

Police warn of release of dangerous offender

Edmonton Police are warning the public about the release of Dennis Rodney Cardinal (also known as Dennis Rodney Lajimodiere) from the Port-Cartier Institution after completing an eight-year, nine-month sentence for various offences, including manslaughter and possession of a weapon.

Cardinal is considered by police to be a violent offender who poses a risk of significant harm to the community. Cardinal will be residing in the Edmonton area and will be monitored closely by the EPS Behavioural Assessment Unit. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Blatchford project set to get underway

Demolition. Three buildings are expected to get the wrecking ball this summer

After a fractured day at council Tuesday, the city is giving full approval to redevelopment of the city centre airport.

City administration held a media briefing Thursday and said they hope to start working on turning the site into the Blatchford neighbourhood very soon.

"We're hoping to begin demolishing buildings on the former airport site before the end of June," said Mark Hall, the project's executive director.

Hall said three buildings will be demolished this summer, with another three following closely behind.

All of the buildings are along Airport Road, near the facility's control tower, which will remain in place.

Hall said the area that will be built first will have a mix of housing choices for everyone who might be interested in moving ahead.

"It does give us the ability to bring family-oriented housing into the community," he said.

Hall expressed confidence in the city's goal of having residents in the area by 2016.

"We have been fielding calls from builders and people interested in developing on the site for well over a year now," he said.

On Tuesday, the project's original architects Perkins + Will, told councillors they were shocked at changes that had been made to their project, while the city prepared an implementation plan.

Coun. Mike Nickel, one of two no votes when council moved to proceed on Tuesday, said he remains worried about the future of the project.

"This is just the tip of a very, very expensive iceberg," he said.

Nickel said he would rather the city have set ambitious environmental targets and then turned the project over to the private sector. He said, as some of the flooding in south Edmonton shows, the city doesn't have a great history when it gets into the development game.

RYAN TUMILTY/METRO

Finished product

The city anticipates it will take 20 – 25 years to build out the site with 30,000 people living there in the end.

Health. Measles outbreak lifted in Calgary, but still in place in Edmonton Alberta Health Services declared Thursday that the measles outbreak in Calgary is over but remains in effect in Edmonton area.

Activity of the disease "has decreased to such an extent" that the outbreak declaration issued on April 29 could be lifted, officials said in a release.

The outbreak declaration was also lifted in Alberta's central health zone but remains in effect in the Edmonton health zone.

In the zones where the outbreak has been lifted, AHS will no longer be offering the "early additional dose" of measles vaccine to infants between the ages of six and 12 months.

Public health officials had been offering the extra dose of vaccine in order to provide "short-term added protection" to babies during the period of higher measles

Infants travelling to the Edmonton area or anywhere else in Canada or internationally where measles outbreaks are still in effect will also be eligible to receive an additional early dose of vaccine.

Family fun. City campground becomes home away from home for Cross Cancer Institute patients

leah.germain@metronews.ca

Aiwa Weremczuk has just one wish: she wants to go camping with her family.

After battling leukemia for the last year, the three-year-old Edmonton girl had that wish come true Thursday as the latest recipient of the Make-A-Wish foundation's gift.

Friends and family gathered at Edmonton's Rainbow Valley Campground for the presentation, which included a brand new tent trailer for the Weremczuk family.

The girl's aunt and campground guest services manager Jennifer Weremczuk said the campground has become a home away from home for many people receiving treatment at Edmonton's Cross Cancer Institute.

"I think the location of the campground makes a big difference. We are so close to the university hospital and the Cross Cancer Institute," she said.

Weremczuk said at most she's had five different patients staying at the campgrounds while they underwent treatment.

"All the people have developed a friendship because they are going through the same thing," she added. "Here, they feel like they're at home."

For Aiwa, the campground was as obvious place to reveal her wish, said Make-A-Wish Foundation's Katie Willis.

"Every wish is as special and as unique as the child that wishes it," said Willis.

Aiwa is currently in the maintenance cycle of her treatment.

'SCRIPT DOCTOR' CHANGED A FEW LINES

Omar Mouallem
omouallem@gmail.com

At the same time Perkins + Will was being invited to present its Blatchford redevelopment master plan at prestigious institutes in Stockholm, Paris, Berkeley and the Netherlands, and before it had won the nation's highest urban design award from the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, Stantec was leading a team to revise the visionary design.

In Hollywood, they call that a "script doctor." And the unwritten rule is the original screenwriter stays quiet about it. That's not what happened at City Hall Tuesday.

The political drama began when four representatives of Vancouver's Perkins + Will, led by architect Joyce Drohan, chastised council for watering down their design, for which they were paid $3.6 million. After blasting the city's allegedly inflated prices for the now eliminated sustainability features, Drohan called Stantec's implementation plan "a slightly better-than-average neighbourhood."

Somewhere along the way, the city's language on Blatchford changed, too, going from being "world-leading" to "one of the largest sustainable redevelopment projects in North America" to "the most sustainable community Edmonton has ever seen." That's like saying the Oilers will be the best NHL team the city's ever had and nothing like the ambitious rhetoric that sold us on closing the airport in the first place.

Perkins + Will says it wasn't consulted on the revisions and got a chance to review the revised plan only two weeks ago. Mayor Iveson fired back, saying they had earlier opportunities but declined because they "weren't employed to." His chief of staff pointed out that the firm turned down the implementation plan's request for proposal in September 2012.

Drohan said in an email after the public rebuke.

Quoted

Smoke has been billowing from the Blatchford redevelopment for months but we still haven't located the fire

"(There was) no indication there that the urban design would be reconsidered as part of the work."

Indeed, the first sentence of the RFP's general description says, "The purpose of the Project is to provide the City with specialist Land Development Engineering services." Nowhere did it mention re-examining housing density goals, profitability and carbon neutrality.

Mark Hall, the development's executive director, takes exception to Drohan's claim that the urban design has changed. "We think the urban design pieces that Perkins + Will provided in the concept plan are still embedded in and central to the development plan."

Smoke has been billowing from the Blatchford redevelopment for months but we still haven't located the fire. Certainly the dramatic changes in revenue projections — from up to $500 million four years ago to now $45 million — set off alarms.

In Tuesday's twist, it was Iveson promoting a "pragmatic" outcome and Nickel who said we've abandoned our "world-class" vision.

It's also not clear whether council understood the long-term value of the eliminated features. The pneumatic garbage collection, for example, has an investment payback of only 10 to 12 years, according to Waste Management World. That's achieved by eliminating disposal trucks and manpower.

More importantly, it flies in the face of the original public-engagement, competition and voting campaign that excited Edmontonians. If the winning design was flawed and over-promising, we should have been warned a year ago. Further, the embarrassment could compromise the City's chances of snagging another A-team like Perkins + Will in the near future.

Blatchford 2 is not a bad plan. Far from it, it's shaping up to be Edmonton's most desirable neighbourhood. But as all sequels go, it fails to move us like the original.

Five-year low. Blood supply shortage prompts calls for donors to come again

If you've already pushed up your sleeves to enjoy the warm weather, Canadian Blood Services (CBS) is asking you to roll them up one more time to help boost the blood supply, now at its lowest pre-summer level in five years.

Traditionally a slow season for donations, CBS has only half of what is usually on the shelf, and is urging all Canadians over 17 and in good health to help.

"The blood supply is shared across Canada, so emergencies won't be affected by a shortage, but elective surgeries may be," said CBS communications specialist Deb Steele-Kretschmer. "Every donation does count."

In Edmonton, more than 2,000 appointments remain open for June. Shaun Boyle, 59, is making his 23rd donation at the CBS clinic on 114 Street. He gives every seven weeks, no matter what.

"I was challenged by my students when I was a high school principal — but now I give because I know that donating blood helps more than just one person," said Boyle.

To make an appointment, see blood.ca or call 1888 2-DONATE (366283).

Bikes are a hot item at U of A

Spinning wheels. University's Bike Library notes increase in loans over last year, credits more student awareness of program

edmonton@metronews.ca

Bicycles are on the move at the University of Alberta, with more bikes being loaned out through the Bike Library this summer than ever before, according to staff.

The library has been lending students an average of eight to 12 bikes a week. The waiting list in May is up by six from the same month last year, and 20 people are on the waiting list for June.

"This is aimed at undergraduate students who are already paying student union fees and want to rent a bike during their time on campus that's relatively accessible and fairly low cost compared to other organizations," said Kerstyn Lane, program manager at Sustain SU.

The bike workshop recently upgraded their space, allowing them to house more bikes while fixing bicycles in a more open space, said Lane.

The demand is highest in the summer, making it a challenge to get each bike out and on the streets as fast as possible.

A variety of bicycles are also available, including mountain bikes, cruisers and road bikes which can all be rented on a monthly basis.

Started in 2005, the student-run centre says more students want to access the service to get out on Edmonton streets.

"I think there's just a greater bike awareness with students on campus," said Lane.

Bike lane plan needs work: urban design expert

The best cycling infrastructure protects cyclists from other motorists, says urban design expert Mikael Colville-Andersen. STEPHANIE DUBOIS/METRO

With the city about to launch into bike lane symposiums on Tuesday, Metro Edmonton asked an international bicycle design expert on the plan set to roll out in Edmonton over the next four years.

The city's 2014-2018 Bike Lane Infrastructure Plan was approved by council on Wednesday and although the plan has its merits, experts say there isn't anything "revolutionary" about the proposed designs.

"It isn't hard to improve Edmonton's existing bicycle infrastructure because there isn't much of it, to be frank. Certainly not compared to so many other cities," said Fort McMurray-born Mikael Colville-Andersen, who is now an urban design expert and CEO of Copenhagenize Design Co.—a Copenhagen-based company that examines bicycle design around the world.

When asked what type of infrastructure would work for Edmonton's core, Colville-Andersen said the best type of bicycle infrastructure is one that protects cyclists from other motorists.

"We know that painted lanes are quite useless and that sharrows are probably the most ridiculous idea ever brought to streets. Bi-directional cycle tracks are more dangerous than one-way cycle tracks on both sides of the street," he said.

The Calgary-native added Edmonton's wide road lanes is a "low-hanging fruit that is not being exploited" and by narrowing car lanes, it would force motorists to focus more and the city could free up space for a cycle track, as seen in other cities.

STEPHANIE DUBOIS/METRO

Perks. City offers rewards for smokers who chuck butts in proper spots

Throwing out cigarette butts in the right spot could earn Edmontonians a doughnut and coffee or two.

As part of a new initiative to encourage smokers to chuck their butts into the proper place, the City of Edmonton will be handing out gift cards to Tim Hortons.

Last year, approximately 200 gift cards were handed out to Edmonton smokers.

Meanwhile, those who chuck their butts haphazardly could face a $250 fine from city bylaw officers.

"Some of the most dangerous and devastating home and grass fires are caused by the improper disposal of smoking materials," said Edmonton Fire Rescue Services Deputy Chief of Public Safety Russell Croome in a release. "Many people

Cows. RCMP look for herd

The RCMP is on the hunt for 59 cows after the herd went missing from a rural property near Provost, Alta.

Authorities estimate the animals are worth approximately $80,000 and were only recently identified as missing after the owner conducted a monthly head count.

The cows were believed to be taken by someone who knew the daily schedule of the owner, who visited the lot where the animals were held twice a day for feeding and watering.

As community leagues celebrate 100 years of being part of the city's life they are looking for input on how well they are doing.

The Edmonton Federation of Community Leagues is surveying Edmontonians, asking them to help guide how leagues operate in the future.

"We are looking at the next five years in particular and trying to determine what leagues should be doing and should be doing better," said Allan Bolstad, the federation's executive director.

Bolstad said how the league advocates for communities is a big issue it is trying to address.

He said community leagues have too often been painted as opponents of all new development.

The survey is available online at efclsurvey2014.ca. The league will be accepting answers until Sunday, June 15.

Man killed hours after jury errs on not-guilty verdict

Alleged burglary.

When the jury in the defendant's trial mistakenly signed a not-guilty form, the judge released him from jail

Bobby Lee Pearson
FRESNO POLICE DEPT./THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A man who was mistakenly acquitted of burglary charges was stabbed to death hours later in a fight, police said.

Bobby Lee Pearson was let go Wednesday after a jury mistakenly signed a not-guilty verdict form at the end of his trial in a California courtroom.

Judge W. Kent Hamlin said Wednesday that he had no choice but to order Pearson to be released from jail because the verdict of not guilty had been put on the record,

The Fresno Bee newspaper reported.

After it was too late, jurors told the judge they were hung on the charges against Pearson.

"This has never happened to me in more than 100 jury trials that I have done," Judge W. Kent Hamlin said, adding that he couldn't change the verdict form.

Pearson's freedom was short-lived. Hours later, he was stabbed to death after going to a home to get some clothing and belongings, police Sgt. James Rios said. He apparently got into a fight early Thursday with his sister's boyfriend, who Rios says then stabbed him.

Pearson and two co-defendants were accused of burglarizing an apartment last year and stealing a video system and a gun. Jurors returned a guilty verdict against one of Pearson's co-defendants and the mistaken not-guilty verdict against Pearson.

Jurors said they were confused by the forms, one of which was for a guilty verdict and the other for a not-guilty verdict. One juror said there was no form they could sign indicating they were deadlocked. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canadians do little to protect themselves online

Poll. We value our privacy but aren't proactive in preserving it

Canadians are more concerned about their online privacy than many of their global counterparts and yet they're also less likely to take proactive measures to secure their personal information, suggests a new study.

Nearly two-thirds of Canadians polled said they believed they had less privacy online than they did a year ago, according to a report by the IT company EMC, which conducted online surveys with 15,000 web users in 15 countries.

Globally, the average was 59 per cent.

Canadians were the second-least likely to say that they'd be willing to trade some of their privacy for "easier access to information and knowledge," behind only the German-born respondents.

About 85 per cent of the Canadians polled said they believed it will become more difficult to cling onto a safe degree of privacy online in the next five years, versus 81 per cent of all respondents.

But Canadians admitted they could do more to protect themselves on the Internet.

Nearly seven in 10 said they did not regularly change their online passwords, versus the global average of 62 per cent.

One in three said they didn't worry about changing their privacy settings when joining social networks, which was in line with the global average.

Tech. U.S. feds push cops to keep silent on surveillance

The Obama administration has been quietly advising local police not to disclose details about surveillance technology they are using to sweep up basic cellphone data from entire neighbourhoods, The Associated Press has learned.

Citing security reasons, the U.S. has intervened in routine state public records cases and criminal trials regarding use of the technology. This has resulted in police departments withholding materials or heavily censoring documents in rare instances when they disclose any about the purchase and use of such powerful equipment.

Bergdahl's writings show an unstable man

Facebook page released. Soldier was battling two conflicts: one outside and another within himself

He criticized unnamed military commanders and government leaders and mused about whether it was the place of the artist, the soldier or the general to stop violence and "change the minds of fools."

Bergdahl's Facebook page was found by The Associated Press on Wednesday, and it was suspended by Facebook for a violation of its terms a short time later. Bergdahl opened the page under the name "Wandering Monk." His last post was made May 22, 2009, a few weeks before he was taken prisoner.

Bergdahl, the only U.S. soldier held captive in Afghanistan, was recently released after five years as a prisoner of the Taliban. In exchange, the U.S. released five detainees from a detention centre in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

World Cup revelry matched by rage as protests get violent

Turmoil in host cities.

Black Bloc adherents infect crowd angered by billions spent on sport

Protesters and Brazilian police clashed in Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro and at least three other World Cup cities on Thursday, around the first match of soccer's premier event.

Just after the match started, about 300 protesters marched along Rio's Copacabana beach to denounce lavish spending on a sports tournament in a nation with profound social needs.

The protest was peaceful, but there were worries that could change as adherents to the anarchist "Black Bloc" tactic were seen in the crowd.

Violence did break out elsewhere.

NELSON ANTOINE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In Sao Paulo, more than 300 demonstrators gathered along a main highway leading to the stadium. Some tried to block traffic, but police repeatedly pushed them back using tear gas and stun grenades.

A few protesters suffered injuries after being hit by rubber bullets, while others choked on tear gas. An Associated Press photographer was injured in the leg after a stun grenade exploded near him. CNN reported on its website that two of its journalists were also injured.

"We're in a country where the money doesn't go to the community, and meanwhile we see all these millions spent on stadiums," said student Tameres Mota, a protester at the Sao Paulo demonstration.

Meanwhile, about 300 protesters gathered in central Rio de Janeiro; police took a few into custody. In Belo Horizonte, about 200 clashed with police, some smashing doors and windows. About 1,000 gathered in Porto Alegre, with some breaking property and hurling stones, authorities said. Police scattered about 150 protesters in the capital city of Brasilia, according to a local newspaper.

Papal pep talk

Let's see a good clean game out there: Pope

Pope Francis has a message for the World Cup: Let soccer be a showcase for teamwork and solidarity, not racism and greed.

The Argentine-born Pope recorded a video that aired on Brazilian TV ahead of Thursday's opening match.

In it, Francis said soccer teaches three lessons that can promote peace and solidarity: The need to train and work hard to reach goals, the importance of fair play and teamwork, and the need to respect and honour opponents.

"To win, we must overcome individualism, selfishness, all forms of racism, intolerance and manipulation of people," he said. He said being "greedy" in soccer, as in life, is an obstacle.

Former teacher dies in hoarder's squalor, cat in lap

California. Rita Corpin, 72, was pronounced dead in her yard of natural causes; she owned three homes

Help was available

"I wish we would have known about this. We probably could have salvaged her."

Fire Insp. Darren Johnson
A member of the Orange County Task Force on Hoarding's executive committee.

Orange County firefighters wearing hazmat suits had to climb over vegetation and trash piled 1.5 metres high to get to a yard where a woman died in a chair amid debris with a kitten in a carrier on her lap.

County Register reports that firefighters arrived Tuesday night at the Rosewood Avenue home of Rita Corpin, 72, who was pronounced dead in her yard. No foul play is suspected.

Corpin owned two other Orange County homes where animal control officials attempted Wednesday to capture more than 60 feral cats. The retired high school history teacher owned two dogs and fed area cats regularly, Santa Ana police Cpl. Anthony Bertagna said.

Because her home was so full of debris, Corpin lived alone in a truck in her driveway, Bertagna said. It took officials several hours to remove Corpin's body from the property because of the trash and overgrown plants.

Over time, the hoarding and neglect at Corpin's properties prompted 26 contacts by Santa Ana city officials, city spokeswoman Tanya Lyon said.

The city levied fines and warned Corpin about her properties' poor condition, but she eventually refused to allow city officials on her properties, Lyon said. By making small changes, Corpin prevented the city from seeking a search warrant to perform inspections.

The Orange County Task Force on Hoarding said the group had not worked with Corpin. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New Hampshire

Businessman's grave ransacked

Three people, including a daughter, are accused of ransacking the grave of a U.S. businessman in search of his "real will," only to find a pack of cigarettes in his hand.

Eddie Nash died of a heart attack in 2004 at age 68. His cemetery vault in New Hampshire was found cracked last month, the casket opened and his remains searched. The body was left intact.

An arrest affidavit names Ginette Dowse, 71, Michael Day, 37, and Nash's daughter, Melanie Lynch, 52.

Lynch had made comments about her father being buried with "the real will," police said.

Day was arrested Tuesday and jailed on charges of interference with a cemetery and criminal mischief. His lawyer didn't return a phone call. Dowse and Lynch are out on bail.

Ukraine accuses Russia of failing to tighten up border controls

Incursion. Three tanks roll into Ukraine, despite Russian statements of interest in a peaceful solution

Ukraine's president rallied support Thursday for his plan to end fighting in the country's east in phone calls with the Russian and German leaders, even as he condemned what Ukrainian officials called an incursion of armoured vehicles from Russia.

The Ukrainian interior minister said three tanks crossed into Ukraine along with other armoured vehicles from Russia and were attacked by military forces fighting pro-Moscow separatists. He did not directly accuse Moscow of sending the tanks, but said it showed Russia had failed to fulfil promises to tighten border controls.

A pro-Russian fighter stands at a checkpoint in Slovyansk, Ukraine, on Thursday. The city has been an epicentre of a nearly two-month standoff between Ukrainian forces and pro-Russian rebels, who have seized administrative buildings, police stations and border posts. der controls.

Russia has denied sending troops or weapons to Ukraine, describing Russian citizens who have joined the armed separatists as volunteers.

There was no independent confirmation that the tanks had come from Russia.

The reported incursion followed statements earlier Thursday by Russia's foreign minister that the separatists were ready for a cease-fire but that Kyiv had to initiate the process.

Interior Minister Arsen Avakov said the incursion had been going on for three days and took place despite Russian statements of interest in a peaceful solution and promises to increase control over the border. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High-level talks

Resolving the crisis

Ukrainian President Petro Poroshenko, who took office less than a week ago, told Russian President Vladimir Putin that it was "unacceptable" that tanks had crossed the border, according to his spokesman, Svyatoslav Tsegolko.

A Kremlin statement said Poroshenko told Putin about his plan for resolving the crisis in the east, but did not say whether they discussed the tanks. Poroshenko has said he's willing to negotiate, but not with what he calls terrorists, and could offer amnesty to those who don't have "blood on their hands."

Atlas documents routes through Arctic sea ice

Inuit occupancy.

Research makes case for sovereignty over Northwest Passage

The Canadian Arctic is often called the trackless tundra. New research proves it is anything but.

Fraser Taylor of Carleton University is co-author of a new atlas that documents hundreds of traditional Inuit place names and thousands of kilometres of routes through the sea ice, coastlines and vast expanses of the Canadian North from Lake Winnipeg to the tip of Ellesmere Island.

The atlas, released this week after more than 15 years of work, combines interviews

A land trail leading to sea ice on Melville Peninsula, Nunavut, in 2006.
CLAUDIO APORTA/THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE with dozens of elders as well as explorer and trader accounts to trace the trails, some hundreds of years old and many still in regular use.

The result, says Taylor, redefines our understanding of Inuit culture and firms up a plank in Canada's case for sovereignty over the Northwest Passage.

"Inuit occupancy and Inuit use of those sea routes is a clear example of 'use it or lose it,'" said Taylor, referring to Prime Minister Stephen Harper's working definition of Arctic sovereignty.

"We show that this is very much Canadian territory, both in land terms and in sea terms."

Researchers spent weeks and months in Arctic communities, earning over the course of years the trust of local elders. In some cases, communities came to them asking for help in documenting local knowledge. THE CANADIAN PRESS

BlackBerry intercepts used in mob crackdown

Project Clemenza.

Police say more than a million messages were analyzed as evidence, leading to arrest of 31 suspected gangsters

Police in Quebec say they used intercepted BlackBerry communications to take down two alleged organized crime groups operating in the province.

The RCMP said Thursday more than one million private messages were intercepted and analyzed as evidence as part of an operation dubbed Project Clemenza.

Officials from the RCMP and Montreal Police said it is the first time this investigative technique has been used on such a large scale in a criminal investigation.

"This is the most important interception of this kind performed as part of a major investigation in North America," RCMP Supt. Michel Arcand told a news conference.

"One million messages were intercepted between 2010 and 2012 (and) the investigation also included a complex analysis process."

The arrests are aimed at dismantling two cells which police say took over after Operation Colisee seven years ago, an operation aimed at their predecessors.

Police described the cells as linked to Italian-based organized crime in Montreal.

Police said they arrested 31 people in Montreal, Quebec City, Laval and Gatineau.

Iraq. Islamic militants vow to march to Baghdad, say they'll impose Shariah

Islamic militants who seized cities and towns vowed Thursday to march on Baghdad to settle old scores, joined by Saddam Hussein-era loyalists and other disaffected Sunnis capitalizing on the government's political paralysis over the biggest threat to Iraq's stability since the U.S. withdrawal.

Trumpeting their victory, the militants also declared they would impose Shariah law in Mosul and other areas they have captured.

In northern Iraq, Kurdish security forces moved to fill the power vacuum — taking over an airbase and other posts abandoned by the military in the ethnically mixed city of Kirkuk. The move further raised concerns the country could end up partitioned into Sunni, Shiite and Kurdish zones.

Three planeloads of Americans were being evacuated from a major Iraqi airbase in Sunni territory north of Baghdad, U.S. officials said, and Germany urged its citizens to immediately leave parts of Iraq, including Baghdad.

U.S. mulling options

- U.S. President Barack Obama is weighing a range of short-term military options, including airstrikes, to quell the insurgency.
- However, officials firmly ruled out putting American troops back on the ground in Iraq.

The UN Security Council met on the crisis, underscoring the growing international alarm over the stunning advances by fighters from the militant group known as the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant.

Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki had asked parliament to declare a state of emergency that would give him and his Shiite-led government increased powers, but the lawmakers failed to assemble a quorum.

The Islamic State aims to create an Islamic emirate spanning both sides of the border. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manitoba. Winnipeg ER death must be ruled a homicide, lawyer says

Lawyers for the family of an aboriginal man who died during a 34-hour emergency room wait say an inquest judge must rule the death a homicide.

They have also asked the judge to recommend Manitoba call a public inquiry into how aboriginal people are treated in the health-care system.

Vilko Zbogor told Judge Tim Preston that failing to provide medical care to a sick person is akin to failing to provide the necessities of life.

"It was homicide," Zbogor said during final arguments Thursday at the Brian Sinclair inquest. "You just need to find that the death was caused by human contribution."

Police have already investigated the death but did not lay any criminal charges.

It's been almost six years since Sinclair, a double-amputee, died at Winnipeg's Health Sciences Centre after languishing in the waiting room for hours, vomiting and slowly dying from a treatable bladder infection. An internal report following his death found some staff assumed he was drunk and waiting for a ride or was a homeless man seeking shelter.

Murray Trachtenberg, another lawyer representing the family, said those racist assumptions led to his death.

The inquest didn't delve into why those assumptions were made or what to do to prevent them, the Sinclair lawyers argued. The Sinclair family lawyers withdrew from the inquest halfway through when the judge chose to focus on overcrowding in emergency rooms, but they returned for final recommendations. N.L. Sealers blame thick ice, blocked markets for drop in landed pelts

The Canadian Sealers Association blames heavy sea ice and trade issues for a big drop in the commercial hunt off Newfoundland this spring.

Executive director Frank Pinhorn says just fewer than 55,000 harp seals were landed, compared to 91,000 last year and 69,000 in 2012.

Pinhorn says about 65 boats went out compared to 45 the year before but many had trouble getting through unusually thick sea ice.

He says the number of seals landed was far below the federal quota of 400,000 while the price held steady at about $35 for the best pelts.

The association is calling on Ottawa to more aggressively deal with seal product bans that block access to mar-

A humpback whale was untangled from lobster fishing gear in the Bay of Fundy earlier this week.

Mackie Greene of the Campobello Whale Rescue Team says five members of his group and federal Fisheries officers travelled about 80 kilometres offshore from New Brunswick's Campobello Island to reach the whale on Tuesday.

Greene says the group freed the nine-year-old whale from ropes attached to lobster fishing gear.

He says his group has rescued about 26 whales since it started operating in 2002.

Toronto Zoo watches for signs of panda pregnancy

The Toronto Zoo says it's monitoring one of its giant pandas for signs of pregnancy following artificial insemination.

Er Shun, one of the pandas on loan to Canada from China, was artificially inseminated in April, but the zoo says pandas' long gestation period makes it hard to know if it worked.

The zoo says pandas only have one chance per year when they can breed and the window lasts one to three days. The male panda, Da Mao, is too young for breeding, so sperm was flown in from China for the procedure. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Superstars join fight against wartime rape

Ending 'culture of impunity'. Brad Pitt joins Angelina Jolie at London summit tackling sexual violence in war

Brad Pitt joined Angelina Jolie at a London summit on sexual violence Thursday, lending the couple's star power to the campaign to end rape in war zones.

The four-day London conference is organized by British Foreign Secretary William Hague and Jolie, a United Nations special envoy.

They hope representatives of the more than 100 countries present will back a new protocol laying out how sexual violence in conflict zones should be investigated and prosecuted. They say they want to end the "culture of impunity" for wartime sex crimes.

Pitt watched from the audience as Jolie and Hague spoke to delegates at the east London conference venue.

Billed as the biggest-ever summit on the subject, the gathering has drawn diplomats, officials, charity representatives and survivors of wartime rape.

Jolie said the meeting, which ends Friday, was being held "for all the forgotten, hidden survivors who have been made to feel ashamed or been abandoned."

"And for the children of rape — we want the whole world to hear their stories and understand that this injustice cannot be tolerated, and that sorrow and compassion are not enough," she said.

Hague and Jolie have made an odd but effective double act as they've campaigned against sexual violence for the past two years.

Hague said the Maleficent star "has the power to speak to the whole world, to raise awareness, change attitudes. Governments like the one I am a member of hold in their hands levers of decision-making and action."

"And this combination can be formidable."

Six killed, 29 injuredExplosion and gas leak at an India steel plant

At least six people were killed and 29 more injured in an explosion and a subsequent gas pipeline leak on Thursday at a government-run steel plant in central India, a plant spokesman said.

The accident happened in Bhilai steel plant in Chhattisgarh state, 35 kilometres west of Raipur, the state capital.

Twenty workers were hospitalized, six of them with serious injuries, said Vijay Kumar Mehral, a spokesman for the steel plant. Nine workers with minor injuries were allowed to go home. Reports said methane and carbon monoxide had leaked from a pipeline after the explosion. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PakistanU.S. drone attacks resume

Missiles from U.S. drones slammed into militant hideouts overnight in northwestern Pakistan, killing 13 suspected insurgents and marking the resumption of the CIA-led program after a nearly six-month break, officials said Thursday.

The strikes were swiftly condemned by the Pakistani government, with the Foreign Ministry saying in a statement that they were a violation of Pakistan's sovereignty and its territorial integrity.

The strikes came just days after a five-hour siege of Pakistan's busiest airport ended with 36 people, including ten militants, killed. It was not clear if the drone strikes were connected to the airport attack. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinian teen killed by live fire: Autopsy

17-year-olds. The Israeli military denies use of ammunition, and insists they used rubber-coated pellets

Stone throwers vs troops

Two 17-year-old teens, Nadim Nawara and Mohammed Salameh, were killed May 15 during intermittent confrontations between Palestinian stone throwers and Israeli troops.

- The teens were killed in the same spot but more than an hour apart.

Preliminary autopsy findings show that a Palestinian teen killed during a lull in a West Bank confrontation between stone-throwers and Israeli troops was shot dead by live ammunition, two human rights groups said Thursday.

The Israeli military has denied use of live ammunition in the May 15 incident, insisting troops only used rubber-coated steel pellets, a standard means of crowd control. Troops are permitted to use live ammunition only in life-threatening situations.

Two 17-year-old teens, Nadim Nawara and Mohammed Salameh, were killed that day, during intermittent confrontations between several dozen Palestinian stone-throwers and Israeli troops on the outskirts of the West Bank town of Beitouniya.

The teens were killed in the same spot but more than an hour apart.

Their deaths drew worldwide attention in part because their final moments were captured by security cameras. In each case, the footage showed the teen walking in the street, a few metres from a wall where others were taking cover.

The Israeli human rights group B'Tselem said at the time the teens posed no threat to soldiers, raising "grave suspicions" that they were victims of wilful shootings.

BRAZIL READY TO SAMBA

The wait is over. Brazil kicked off the 2014 FIFA World Cup with a football-style Carnival before thousands of dancing yellow-clad fans, who seemed eager to put construction delays and protests behind them. To get you in the game, Metro has you covered with the latest from Brazil.

J-Lo helps World Cup kick off in style

Singers Jennifer Lopez, Pitbull and Claudia Leitte perform during the opening ceremony of the 2014 FIFA World Cup Brazil before the Group A match between Brazil and Croatia at Arena de Sao Paulo on June 12, 2014 in Sao Paulo, Brazil. J-Lo — who turned up for the performance despite earlier reports that she wouldn't be able to attend — rapper Pitbull and pop star Leitte bounced around a giant stage that resembled a peeled melon. Will soccer outshine the protests?

The sun rose Thursday on a tropical nation hosting its first World Cup in 64 years. Nearly half the world's population, well over three billion spectators, are expected to watch soccer's premier event and get a glimpse of the country that in two years will host the Summer Olympics.

But just hours before play was to begin, it still wasn't clear which Brazil we would see. Would it be the irreverent nation known for its festive, free-wheeling spirit? Or would it be the country that, for the past year, has been a hotbed of fury over poor public services, discontent over a political system widely viewed as corrupt, and deep anger over the $11.5 billion US spent on hosting the World Cup?

"The world is going to see multitudes cheering for soccer — but also demanding that our country change," Helen Santos, a school teacher, said as she walked home in Rio de Janeiro. "The world needs to see that we're a serious country. We're not just a nation of soccer, but a country striving and demanding the government provide better education and health care. The world needs to see the reality of Brazil, not just the sport."

Street protests have lessened in size since last year, when Brazilians staged raucous rallies against the government, overshadowing the Confederations Cup soccer tournament. For two weeks, dozens of places were roiled by unrest. Whether Brazilians have moved past such disruption is uncertain.

"I hope the soccer outshines the protests, but I also know there remains a climate of anger," said Edson Carvalho, an office assistant watching 10 barefoot young men play a pick-up soccer match in Rio's Botafogo neighbourhood. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brazil takes cup for sticker shock

What things cost in Brazil

Brazil protects its local industries by charging high tariffs on imported goods.

THE iPhone 5s COSTS $649 IN THE U.S. BUT HAS A STARTING PRICE OF $1,250 US IN BRAZIL.

A PEPPERONI PIZZA WILL COST YOU $35 IN BRAZIL.

BRAZIL'S $6.28 BIG MAC IS AMONG THE MOST EXPENSIVE IN THE WORLD.

World Cup visitors, welcome to Brazil, land of soccer, sun and sky-high prices.

Unlike nearby Latin American nations where a tourist's U.S. dollar or European Union euro seemingly stretches forever, Brazil is astoundingly expensive.

If one's budget isn't immediately busted by the flight or the hotel, it will soon be done in by the $10 US caipirinha cocktail and the $17 cheeseburger. And those are the prices city-dwelling Brazilians saw even before the World Cup set off a new standard of sticker shock.

The dizzying prices are referred to here as the "Custo Brasil," or "Brazil Cost" — the mixture of high taxes and steep import tariffs, combined with bad infrastructure, a dose of inefficiency and a thick shot of bureaucracy.

Demand leading up to a big event like the World Cup naturally raises prices. But, since costs already were high to begin with, tourists should prepare to dig deeply into their wallets and not be too miffed to receive goods or services of inferior quality, said Rafael Alcadipani, a business administration professor at the Getulio Vargas Foundation, Brazil's top think-tank.

"Anything you buy in Brazil will be more expensive than in the United States or Europe, but the quality is going to be worse," he said.

Hotel rates in many of the World Cup host cities more than doubled ahead of the tournament. Massachusetts-based TripAdvisor reports visitors to Rio will face the highest prices, with hotel rates averaging $445 per night. Even the more affordable host cities will set travellers back a good amount: $457 per day in Cuiaba and $477 in Sao Paulo.

"The Cup prices are ridiculous. Everything shot up. The only thing you can buy in Brazil is a bikini, a cachaca (Brazilian sugar cane liquor) and a pair of Havaianas (sandals)," said Gillian Santos, a Brazilian who now lives in Belgium. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sweet justice? Top U.S. court rules Pom can go forward with a lawsuit alleging a competitor's label is misleading

Coca Cola's version of pomegranate juice is not quite the real thing, and a competitor has another chance to prove it in court.

The U.S. Supreme Court on Thursday sided with juice maker Pom Wonderful in its long-running false advertising dispute with the Coca-Cola Co., a decision that could open the door to more litigation against food makers for deceptive labelling.

The justices ruled 8-0 that Pom can go forward with a lawsuit alleging the label on a "Pomegranate Blueberry" beverage offered by Coke's

Energy. Soon you'll be able to give yourself and your phone a jolt at Starbucks

Soon you may not have to fumble or fight for a power outlet to charge your phone at your neighbourhood Starbucks.

Starbucks and Duracell say they are rolling out Powermat wireless charging devices in stores in San Francisco. The charging spots will expand into other major markets in 2015, and the companies plan to put the devices in all Starbucks and Teavana locations over time.

The companies say stores will have "Powermat Spots," designated areas on tables and counters where customers can put their compatible smartphones and charge them wirelessly.

Most smartphones and devices on the market now are not compatible with the Powermat stations, although some with the built-in capability are starting to emerge, according to IHS, a market researcher. People can also buy Powermat accessories to charge devices that aren't compatible, Starbucks noted.

CHEAP TRICKS AND OTHER ACTS OF GOD

1 World Cup. You say football; I say soccer. Whatever, it's the biggest sports tournament on Earth, and it finally got underway in Brazil, despite a melee of protests, strikes and various other failures to launch. The Canadian team is chronically unable to qualify for the tournament, so we have to hope for somebody else. This year's favourites are Brazil, Argentina, Germany and Spain, but why not root for Africa's Cameroon, which punches way above its weight, unlike Canada?

2 Dead heat. Another tourney that wasn't resolved before my column-writing deadline was Thursday's Ontario election. Voters seemed underwhelmed by the choices: the Liberals and Kathleen Wynne, the Conservatives and Tim Hudak, and the NDP and Andrea Horwath. Before results were in, pollsters were calling it too close to call. Of course, after blowing both the B.C. and Alberta calls, pollsters have a recent history of being wrong, so maybe they were just hedging their bets. Horwath is the Cameroon of Ontario politics, and her chances seemed about as good.

3 Right, right, you're bloody well right. Speaking of politics, this is what it has come down to in the U.S.: An extreme right-wing Republican, Eric Cantor, who is also the Majority Leader of the House of Representatives, lost the primary, which is basically the nomination, to an even more extreme right wing Tea Party Republican, the appropriately named David Brat, who accused his seven-term rival of not being extreme enough. It worked, at least among the anvil chorus voting for Republican primaries in Virginia. "It's a miracle from God!" crowed Brat, revealing that God is registered to vote in Virginia.

4 Another day, another rampage. Hardly a day goes by without another shooting rampage, the latest a protracted gun battle on the usually bucolic seawall along Vancouver's trendy False Creek. Crazed gunmen and mass shootings have become such a common occurrence, we're almost numb. But it took a photo of Danny, the K9 companion of RCMP officer Dave Ross, to bring the tragedy of gun violence home. The photo, of Danny the German shepherd sniffing his master's hat and looking around for him at the funeral, went viral this week, and will continue to haunt us in the days to come.

5 There's always Justin Bieber. It's not quite comic relief, but it will do. Notorious Canadian twit Justin Bieber continues to make the wrong kind of news, this time for getting caught on video using the N word, not once but twice. It doesn't really matter that both incidents happened when he was 14 and 15. His goose is now pretty much cooked and he's barely out of his teens. Fresh out of PR spin, he's turned to God, and was recently baptized in a New York pastor's bathtub. Well, whatever works, but I suspect God is too busy helping the Tea Party Brat to take care of ours.

Pothole vigilantism goes artsy

The perfect pothole might not exist for many people — but for artist Jim Bachor, it's one with a nice oval shape. Bachor began filling potholes a little more than a year ago, after one in front of his house became a hassle. He doesn't just fill them with cement, though. He's turned pothole-filling into a public art project. He fills them with mosaics. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Public art, practical outcome

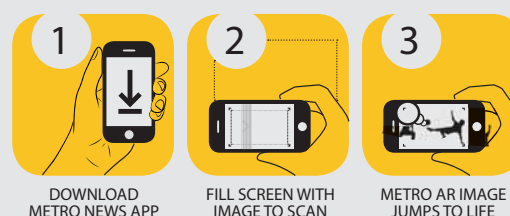

While his art isn't a permanent solution to the problem, it's at least a small fix, he says. The city hasn't shut down his project, and some community members have expressed gratitude. Gerry Shaheen says Bachor and his crew are welcome anytime to fill potholes in his city. "I'll pave the way for them," Shaheen said with smirk. "No pun intended." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Designs

- Bachor uses the Chicago city flag design in his pothole art.
- Some versions hold phone numbers to local auto repair shops, while others simply read POTHOLE.
- His most recent installment — #21914 — pokes fun at the huge number of potholes that exist in the city.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum are producers on 22 Jump Street. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

The 21 Jump Street high school undercover cops Schmidt and Jenko (Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum) are back, but this time they're narco cops. That is until they botch an investigation into drug lord Ghost's (Peter Stormare) operation. Their failure gets them demoted back to the 22 Jump Street (they moved across the road) program. Jump Street's Captain Dickson (Ice Cube) sends them undercover, as unlikely brothers Brad and Doug McQuaid, to college to arrest the supplier of a drug named WHYPHY (WiFi). The bumbling, but self-confident duo infiltrates the college, but campus life threatens to blow apart their partnership.

Jump Street. Tatum and Hill's second outing as bumbling cops takes self-aware jabs at the business of sequels

Richard: Mark, Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum are producers on the new Jump Street film, which, I guess, explains all the jokes about how much everything cost.

At one point Hill actually says, "It's way more expensive for no reason at all."

I don't know how much the movie cost to make,

but the self-aware jokes did make me laugh even though it is essentially a remake of the first film, with a few more Laurel and Hardy slapstick gags and amped-up explosions.

What was your take?

Mark: Richard, I liked this instalment way more than the previous outing.

I loved all the self-referential gags, including the brilliant end-credits that hilariously make fun of the inevitable sequels that will follow.

I credit the directors, Phil Lord and Chris Miller, for the knowing pop culture sophistication they brought to the film.

They directed the first one, too, but they've grown more confident since their Lego Movie hit, which also tweaked the audience's expectations in a similar way.

RC: The end credit sequence, which maps out the next sequels from number 3 to installment 43 — they go to Beauty School and Magic School among other places of higher learning — is probably the funniest part of the movie.

The stuff that comes before is amiable, relying on the Mutt and Jeff chemistry of Hill and Tatum for laughs. It's boisterous and aims to please, but best of all are the self-referential jokes.

By clowning around about the difficulty in making the sequel better than the original, they're winking at the audience, acknowledging that this is basically a spoof of Hollywood sequels.

It's subversive, meta and kind of brilliant.

MB: Yep. Because I can see explosions and pratfalls in any "action comedy"; it's the subversive stuff that makes this movie stand apart.

The intergender fight sequence between Jonah Hill and Jillian Bell (who is incredible throughout the film) is as subversive a take on sexual politics and

"rape culture" that you will ever find.

It's these kinds of scenes that kept me laughing through the picture. The black stoner twins, played expertly by The Lucas Bros, were a masterpiece of writing and comic timing.

RC: I agree, but ill-timed jokes about Maya Angelou and Tracy Morgan were sore thumbs for me, but that's more coincidence, I guess than bad taste.

MB: I don't think those jokes were deliberate, but they sure broke the spell for me.

But then Ice Cube's comic rants got me back.

Pedro and ligers and tots, oh my!

Gosh! Ten years after cracking us up as Napoleon Dynamite, Jon Heder reflects on the movie that launched his career

Of all the memorable lines in Napoleon Dynamite, the quirky comedy that introduced the world to “ligers” and “Vote for Pedro” T-shirts, there is one that gets hollered at star Jon Heder more than any other.

“Tina, you fat lard, come get some dinner,” says Heder, easily adopting Napoleon’s indignant, breathy voice after all these years.

The line — directed at his grandmother’s pet llama, Tina — perfectly captures the offbeat tone of the 2004 film.

Made for just $400,000, the movie was picked up by Fox Searchlight and Paramount after premiering at the Sundance Film Festival and made $46 million worldwide.

Heder, now 36, celebrated the film’s 10th anniversary this week with other cast members in Los Angeles, where a statue of Napoleon was unveiled on the Fox Studios lot. In a phone interview with The Canadian Press, he said the film’s cult following continues to this day.

“I think people really related to Napoleon, whether they felt like him growing up or knew someone like that,” he said. “Even though it’s kind of over-the-top and funny, he’s trying to figure out what he’s good at and everyone can relate to that.”

“What are you gonna do today, Napoleon?” “Whatever I feel like I wanna do. Gosh!” THE CANADIAN PRESS

The bizarre comedy set in a rural Idaho town follows Napoleon, a frizzy-haired teenager with a permanent slack-jawed expression, and the unusual characters around him: his shrimpy brother Kip; football-obsessed Uncle Rico; and shy, crafty friend Deb, played by Tina Majorino.

Director Jared Hess took inspiration from his own rural upbringing while writing the film with his wife, Jerusha. His brothers even worked at the chicken farm where Napoleon toils, and the llama actually belonged to his mother — although her real name was Dolly, not Tina.

“After the film screened for the first time at Sundance, my mom came up to me afterwards and said, ‘Well, that was a lot of embarrassing family material,’” said Hess with a laugh.

“The character of Napoleon, especially — I come from a family of six boys and just about everything that is said in the film or happens in the film, my brothers either said or experienced firsthand.”

Hess wrote a short film featuring the Napoleon character about a year and a half before the feature. He was struggling to find the right actor to play the central role, before he remembered Heder from one of his classes at film school.

“I acted out for him the voice and some of the mannerisms of how he was supposed to sound and look, but then Jon took it and ... he just became the character and totally brought him to life,” Hess said.

When Heder read the script for the short film, he said he immediately identified with the Napoleon character because he also grew up in a big family of boys.

“I got it right away,” Heder said. “I knew exactly who that person was because so much of Napoleon was in my younger brothers and in myself. We had very similar experiences. I loved it. I was like, ‘This is genius.’”

Neither expected the film to go on to be a smash hit or attract a cult following that has lasted a decade. Heder, who later appeared in the Will Ferrell comedy Blades of Glory and Kristen Bell romance When in Rome, said that at first he struggled with the spotlight.

“Getting recognized, I got used to it, but it was weird. It changed everything. I’ve forever got this thing — it can be either a cloud or a rainbow — just hovering over you that is the movie Napoleon Dynamite,” he said.

Asked whether he ever gets tired of being so closely associated with one character, Heder said: “I would, if I really didn’t like him.

“But I love the movie. I’m so blessed that it was my first film,” he added. “It’s very close to my heart ... I was kind of moving on with my life (at that time). I got married. I was starting my career, and I couldn’t have asked for a better way to do it.”

Over the years, the film has spurred countless fan tributes — a YouTube search for “Napoleon Dynamite dance” reveals just how many people have dutifully learned and recreated Heder’s improvised boogie to Jamiroquai’s Canned Heat.

But Heder says the strangest fan request he ever received happened while he was speaking at a college several years ago. A fan wanted Heder to recreate a scene where Uncle Rico throws a steak at Napoleon’s head.

“This kid came up with a steak and he wanted me to throw the steak at him as part of a retribution act for what Uncle Rico did to me,” recalled Heder.

“So I got to throw a steak at someone and I nailed him and it felt great,” he said.

“He loved it. Everybody was cheering him on. He felt like a rock star. I felt like a rock star. It was a win-win.”

Why Australia is a perfect setting for a post-apocalyptic film

The Rover. Aussie filmmaker takes to his home to film tale about a man out for revenge in a hostile world

EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Australian filmmaker David Michod made quite a first impression in Hollywood with his 2010 debut, Animal Kingdom, so a lot of eyes were on him as he chose a followup. That choice is now here in the form of The Rover, a post-apocalyptic tale about a man (Guy Pearce) out for revenge against the guys who stole his car.

Australia seems to lend itself to these post-apocalyptic settings.

I love this kind of movie, people stranded in a really

The Rover opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED inhospitable landscape. And in some ways it doesn't get more inhospitable than Australia largely because 80 per cent of the country is desert and there are so few people out there. It's both epically beautiful and wholly terrifying when you're out there, because you know that only a couple of little things would need to go wrong and you could die. For instance, New Zealand doesn't really have any animals, so there's lots of beautiful stuff to look at, but it also makes it a little bit dull. I realized how much I love roaming in the bush in Australia because at any moment something that might kill you could pop out. Of course, in The Rover it's more the people that might kill you.

In a way, it's a kind of geopolitical inversion of the world in present day, because the world of The Rover in a way sort of exists on the planet today. It just happens to be in super-violent, resource-rich countries like Nigeria or West African states where there still is an infrastructure and official organization, but it's just incredibly cutthroat, and there is violence bubbling under the surface at all times.

There is a sort of sense of anger threaded through this narrative.

I can't remember at what point in the writing process this started to happen, but I started to funnel a lot of my anger and despair into the world of the movie and specifically into Guy's character — anger at the willingness that the people today seem to have to just let the world fall into disrepair solely to service the rampant greed of a very small number of people. You look at the invasion of Iraq on a certain level, and it would seem to me that the only reason that administration embarked on that ludicrous endeavour was to enrich their friends. I mean, to cause so much suffering in order to enrich a small number of people is pathologically evil. And it's difficult, when you think about these things, not to get angry.

MMVAs. Kendall and Kylie are crazy excited to host Much award show

Fresh off a teleprompter flub at the Billboard Music Awards, Kendall Jenner says she's relaxing ahead of her upcoming hosting gig with sister Kylie at the Much Music Video Awards.

"We don't want to think too much about it. If we think too much about it, we'll get really nervous and work ourselves up. We're just relaxing and getting excited," she said.

The teen-age sisters — reality TV personalities and members of the Kardashian brood — say they have only seen snippets of the show in the past, but are expecting a "big, fun party."

Their first time hosting an awards show comes just weeks after Kendall appeared to misread the teleprompter at the Billboard Music Awards and joked, "I'm the worst reader, you guys."

When asked about the slip, whispering between the sisters and their manager could be heard, before

replied,

"Next

question."

Sorry."

But

dall, 18,

said she and Kylie are excited about the opportunity to host the MMVAs this Sunday. Asked several questions about what viewers can expect, the sisters wouldn't share many details — urging fans to tune in and find out. "We just want to make it fun. This is obviously our first time, and we're not perfect, so we just want to have fun with it and do the best we can," said Kendall.

The daughters of Bruce and Kris Jenner, the teens have been appearing on Keeping Up With the Kardashians for years, alongside half-sisters Kim, Khloe and Kourtney.

Asked which artists they're looking forward to seeing, both Kendall and Kylie said 17-year-old New Zealand singer-songwriter Lorde was at the top of their list. "I missed Lorde at Coachella so I really wanted to see her, so I can't wait to see her," said Kylie.

The MMVAs will be held Sunday outside CTV headquarters in downtown Toronto and be simulcast on Much and CTV.

Sam Smith is an open book

'Just an honest person.' The neo-soul singing Brit recently opened up about his sexuality in a talk with Fader magazine

British neo-soul singer Sam Smith recently opened up about his sexuality to Fader magazine, sending ripples through the pool of music press on both sides of the Atlantic.

As Smith prepares to release his spine-tingling debut, In the Lonely Hour, in North America this Tuesday, he acknowledges that he watched to see how his comment — that the album's lovedrunk gut-punches were inspired by a guy he fell for last year who didn't return his feelings — would reverberate.

"I don't read album reviews, but I've been reading the stories about my personal life — which is completely fine," the 22-year-old said in a recent telephone interview from London.

Does Smith feel accurately portrayed? "Oh, one million per cent," he replied. "You're getting my personality spot-on. I am highly emotional and also very loving and caring and I'm just an honest person."

On tour in America, Jake Bugg feels at home

Bonnaroo and beyond. Young British upstart is eager to win new fans out on the road

Jake Bugg has been keeping busy in America since the release of his second album, the Rick Rubin-produced Shangri La, late last year. He wrapped up a headlining tour of sizeable theatres with a rousing sold-out show at the Ryman Auditorium in Nashville earlier this year, hit Ellen and American Idol, and did a flyby of the South by Southwest conference in Austin, Texas, last March on his way to the West Coast to play for Jimmy Fallon.

Now Bonnaroo starts a small run of festivals and theatres for Blake, and later this year, he'll open a run of dates for The Black Keys.

"I just love touring the States and seeing everything," said the 20-year-old roots rock-influenced singer with the raspy voice.

"But you can't tour it if you have nobody to play to and the thing with festivals and the like is not everybody's there to see you, so it's an opportunity to make some new fans and build your fan base."

Bugg has been using his journeys to gather ideas for a third album, and the trip to Manchester, Tenn., for this weekend's festival won't be his only trip to the area. He plans to return later this year and visit Memphis, home to so many of his influences, like Stax Records.

"You know, I might go in there and it might not be happening or I might go in there and really love it and just get inspired and just want to spend some time there," Bugg said.

"It's just about enjoying myself sometimes. I just want to enjoy myself and go trace back some of my musical roots and my heroes and stuff like that, and just see what happens."

This musical tourism paid off for Bugg on Shangri La as he collaborated with new friends in new locations.

He found safe harbour in The Raconteurs singer-guitarist Brendan Benson's studio in Nashville. The sessions produced album standout Kingpin and two other strong songs.

"Jake's kind of a rare bird," Benson said. "He's so young, but he's got this kind of old man wisdom about him in his lyrics. He just sort of seems to be channelling an old spirit, like an old sailor from long ago or sometimes like an old blues man or something. It's a pretty strange thing to witness coming out of such a young kid's mouth."

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

Baroque pop, hard punk rock, and some slow, melodic summer jams. Now that's variety!

I Know You Know/ Andrew Judah

A Kelowna, B.C. musician who describes his sound as "baroque pop". This is the second single from his upcoming album, Monster. Nice Philippines-shot video, too.

Multi Media World/Parkdale Hookers

This "Toronto-based business conglomerate, hedge funk and alternative rock group" (complete with a CEO and a Chief Marketing Officer) has been around since 2001. Echo Bubble Overdrive is the followup to a 2005 debut album.

You Can/ Tearjerker

If you remember noise-pop bands like Lush, Catherine Wheel and Slowdive, you'll appreciate what this Toronto trio does. You Can is a track from their latest release, an EP entitled Hiding.

Video game review

Name. Tomodochi Life

For. Nintendo 3DS & 2DS

Rated. Everyone

It's up to you to create all the characters for this strange game of awkward conversations and bizarre costumes. Buying your villagers gifts and watching their antics is entertaining, but it's the mini-game quizzes, fantasy quests, and Frisbee tosses that actually give you something to do, and yet they only appear at inconvenient hours of the day. The rest of the time there's little activity and only your own characters to play with. There's nothing wrong with Nintendo playing at being surreal, but they've forgotten how to be engaging, too. KRIS ABEL

SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?

As recommended by Dr. Gifford-Jones M. D.

Helps to reduce the time it takes to fall asleep.

What people truly experience: In most cases also stops snoring and gasping for air (sleep apnea) first night. Stops torturing your partner all night. Good sleep prevents being tired next day. Tired people work only at half capacity. ■ I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a CPAP machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS ■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ It is such a joy not having to use the CPAP machine. I have had sleep apnea for 10 years. Using Bell#23, my wife says there is no more snoring or stoppage of breathing. It is such a joy to be able to roll to left or right with no hose or mask to deal with. Thank you Bell for a great relief. I suggest anyone with these problems to try it. You will be overjoyed with the results. Wayne Burse, 63, Beamsville, ON.

Sizzler puts heat on marriage after mistress

Through a keyhole darkly. Novel about cheater who tries to woo back wife is not your typical beach read

Metro World News

It all started with a note taped on the outside of a French art gallery. The note read (in French), "Mr. Architect, you were wearing an elegant hat and you wanted to buy the blue bear. Please contact me." Courtney Maum was living in Paris at the time and experiencing years of writer's block, but that one note sparked the idea for her new extremely buzz-y novel, I Am Having So Much Fun Here Without You.

The protagonist is a British artist named Richard who paints rooms as they appear through a keyhole, but he is more obsessed with pining over his ex-mistress than his art — or his wife. He starts regretting his affair about the same time his wife is done with him. "In my family history, everyone cheated on everyone else and got divorced. I found myself wondering, 'Did anyone try to work it out?'" Maum tells us.

Because the book addresses infidelity, early reviewers and readers are dissecting it, trying to pull marital lessons from these fictional characters. But that doesn't intimidate Maum. "I'm pretty flattered by that," she says. "I remember thinking that people who are married or think about marriage a lot would like this book ... It's a bumpy road. Marriage is freaking awkward. You're not psyched after eight years to get into bed with the same person," she says.

Richard has many other flaws — besides the whole having a mistress part — but as a reader, you can't help but root for him. Finding the balance of creating a character who was funny, dark, flawed and likable all at the same time wasn't easy for Maum. "When I wrote the first version back in 2002, I got a lot of rejection letters," she says. "All the editors thought Richard was too unlikeable. At first I just thought they just weren't risk takers, but when I read the manuscript again 10 years later, I realized they were right." Maum says she wrote as if she was sitting there with him and his wife in the kitchen with the baby upstairs. "I wrote with my heart," she says.

Maum grew up in a conservative city in Connecticut, lived in France for five years and now splits her time between Paris, New York City and the Berkshires. Immersing herself in cultures all with vastly different views on marriage seems to have greatly influenced Maum, and her novel is stronger because of it. This book may not be the feel-good read of the summer, but it will stick with you.

Card countin' Affleck gets kicked out of Windsor casino

A day trip to Caesars Windsor turned into a dark night for Ben Affleck last month.

According to Radar Online, the 41-year-old actor took a break from filming Batman v. Superman in Detroit to hit the Canadian casino on May 31. "He sat down and played for roughly 20 minutes before security heard he was there. They made the dealers stop what they were doing and asked him to leave. Ben seemed pretty mad," a source told Radar.

Affleck is a well-known card shark, having been banned from casinos in Las Vegas for counting cards; his reputation appears to have preceded him at Caesars. METRO

Pippa embarks on bike race across this side of the pond

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News in New York City

Next time you're driving in America, glance at the bike lane. Do you see a lovely butt and very shiny hair? You may be sharing the road with a princess-adjacent socialite. Beginning June 15, Pippa Middleton is biking across America.

Pippa and her brother James Middleton are participating in the Race Across America, a cross-country bicycle race from Oceanside, Calif., to Annapolis, Md. They'll be part of an eight-person relay team with their friend James Matthews, raising money for the foundation named for James' brother Michael Matthews. Michael Matthews passed away at the age of 22 while descending from Mount Everest. The foundation begun in his name raises money for education for poor children around the world.

If you want to cheer on the Middletons, I would aim for the nice flat Illinois bit to see her at her best. I imagine the Rockies are terrible for hair shininess.

Justin Bieber

Bieber says I love you, one deleted Instagram photo at a time

Social media is the bane of the fickle heart, as Justin Bieber is proving with his erratic postings pertaining to on-again, off-again girlfriend Selena Gomez.

While it has seemed that the couple had finally split for good in recent months, Bieber doesn't seem so sure.

Just this week, he posted a close-up photo of the two in an embrace with the caption, "Our love is unconditional."

Suggesting a tentative Romeo, he quickly deleted the posting — but not before many of his 16 million Instagram followers screen-grabbed it and re-posted it.

Out of problems, LiLo turns on freckles

Lindsay Lohan is looking to turn over a whole new leaf, and that apparently involves changing one very iconic part of her image. "She's always loved her freckles — well, pretended to, anyway — but now she's decided it's time to get rid of them and she's looking into having them either bleached or lasered away," a source tells the National Enquirer.

Pink is the new white when it comes to casual back deck sipping wine. Rosé has been the warm weather go-to for Europeans for years and Canada is starting to catch up.

Sadly, our opinion of blush wines has been influenced by white zinfandel: a popular, but polarizing, version that's typically confectionary and usually sweet (most rosé is dry). Though pleasant enough, their reputation as a simple tippie for those new to wine hasn't done classic rosé styles any favours.

A rosé's pink hue comes from dark grape skins coming into contact for a short while with the juice. The longer they're together, the darker the wine.

Spain has a history of rosé production using indigenous grape varieties. The Marqués de Cáceres 2013 Rosado ($13.95 - $16.29) is made from tempranillo and its balance of juicy, berry fruit with a refreshing dryness is a benchmark. As well as tasting great, rosé wines are fantastic with food — especially if the dish is eclectic or has an aggressive, dominating flavour.

Grilled Caramelized Onion and Feta Pizza.

Don't limit this family favourite to a hot oven. It can easily be made in your backyard

Onions are a bit of a reflex buy for many. Every time these people go to the grocer they always buy a bag of onions. They're a kitchen staples so you must always be about to run out, right? It's a good theory. But if that was the case, you wouldn't currently have 15 pounds of onions on the counter.

That's where this grill-friendly way of using a whole mess of caramelized onions comes in. The pizza is topped with onions and garlic, spiked with caraway seeds and golden raisins, finished with roasted red peppers, pine nuts, and crumbled feta for a kind of Middle Eastern take on grilled pizza

1. Set the pizza crust, in the bag, on the counter to come to room temperature.

2. Meanwhile, in large, heavy pot, such as a cast-iron Dutch oven, over medium heat, melt the butter. Add onions and cook, stirring often, for 20 minutes. Stir in raisins, garlic and caraway seeds, then cook another 3 minutes, or until onions are significantly reduced and caramelized. Stir in the red peppers, then transfer the mixture to a bowl and set aside.

Ingredients

- 20-oz ball purchased pizza crust
- 2 tbsp butter
- 2 medium yellow onions, thinly sliced
- 1/3 cup golden raisins
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tbsp caraway seeds
- 12-oz jar roasted red peppers, drained and sliced
- Olive oil
- 1/3 cup pine nuts
- 1/2 cup crumbled feta cheese

3. When the onions are done, heat the grill to medium-high. On a lightly floured counter, roll the pizza dough out to a 14-inch round. Brush the top of the dough with oil, then transfer it to a large plate or platter for carrying it to the grill. Have your remaining ingredients prepared, then bring everything to the grill.

4. Flip the dough onto the grill, oiled side down, and cook for 5 minutes, or until the bottom is lightly browned and puffed. Reduce the heat to medium-low, then brush the top of the dough with oil. Use tongs to flip the dough.

5. Spread the onion mixture evenly over the crust, then sprinkle it with pine nuts and feta. Cover the grill and cook for 4 to 6 minutes, or until the bottom is lightly browned and the feta is softened. Serve immediately.

Edmonton food scene on the rise

Great spots to eat are popping up everywhere

There's a food revolution happening in Edmonton right now and it couldn't have come at a better time.

And it's not just the city's sizzling food trucks that have Edmontonians salivating at the mouth but a growing trend toward high quality, unique independent restaurants, according to Edmonton Economic Development food hospitality manager Jimmy Shewchuck.

"Right now there is an infectious energy and buzz in the city's food scene with great food spots popping up all over and I think we're seeing a bit of a renaissance," he says of the transforming food scene. "I think the city has done a lot to make it accessible and embrace diversity and there is definitely a surge in the market right now."

When you think great food it's hard not to envision the city's growing food truck scene, but there is a lot more happening, too.

"I think you're seeing a lot of high quality food with a focus on sustainable food and local ingredients and these places are really feeding the consumers what they want."

There might be fewer seats in the new spots opening as the trend has included smaller boutique eateries, but Shewchuck says people don't mind waiting for quality food.

"People are craving something different and unique but we still have a great balance of some of the bigger name restaurants, too, so I think Edmontonians have an enormous variety of choices out there for where they want to dine," he adds.

Everybody knows about the food choices Whyte Avenue has to offer but some other great spots include downtown, and Shewchuck says the new entertainment district where the planned Rogers arena will be located will be the place to be — and eat.

"Once that district is up and running I think all eyes will be on Edmonton, and we will be ready."

Tandoori King to bring 'wow' factor to the city

Restaurant to open June 13 in Edmonton

With a passion for food and high standards for quality, Tandoori King is set to inject pizzazz into the Edmonton food scene.

Established in 1987, Tandoori King is one of Vancouver's top Indian restaurants and now the popular restaurant is about to transform the city's dining scene, says Tandoori King owner Mandeep Kooner.

"We have an intense passion for good food and top quality ingredients, and we expect our food to be the best," Kooner says. We think the 'wow' factor isn't something that has been experienced in Edmonton yet and we want to change that."

Kooner says the restaurant doesn't take shortcuts when it comes to food quality and he personally visited six meat shops before choosing the best quality of chicken for their "world famous butter chicken" dish.

"We choose the best ingredients and we let the butter chicken simmer almost all day so it has very delicious flavours and aromas. We believe in making food with love."

Tandoori King will open in south Edmonton on Friday, June 13 and Kooner says Edmontonians will really enjoy the entire menu.

"We want to establish ourselves as one of Edmonton's top restaurants and we want our customers to keep coming back for more. We truly appreciate good quality food and we only offer the best of the best. There's no shortcuts to delicious."

Neymar's brace keeps party jumping in Brazil

World Cup. Hosts open tournament with 3-1 win; Croatia shaken by controversial penalty

Neymar gave Brazil a winning start to its home World Cup, scoring twice to lead the host nation to an unconvincing 3-1 victory over Croatia in the opening game on Thursday.

In his 50th match with Brazil, the 22-year-old forward scored a goal in each half to help the hosts survive an early scare and escape disaster in front of a packed Itaquerao Stadium after Croatia had taken an early lead.

Marcelo found his own net while trying to clear a low cross by Ivica Olic in the 11th minute, but Neymar then showed why the nation's high hopes are all pinned on him.

He equalized in the 29th minute, clearing a defender in midfield before making a run toward the edge of the area and firing a perfectly placed low shot that went in off the post.

The game turned on a controversial penalty awarded by Japanese referee Yuichi Nishimura in the 71st minute when striker Fred went down inside the area under minimal contact from defender Dejan Lovren.

Neymar scored from the spot for his 33rd goal with Brazil. The Barcelona star got a standing ovation when he was substituted near the end of the match.

The Croatians were furious. "If that was a penalty, we should be playing basketball. Those kinds of fouls are penalized there," Croatia coach Niko Kovac said.

"That is shameful, this is not a World Cup referee. He had one kind of criteria for them and another for us. The rules were not the same," Kovac said.

Cristiano Ronaldo

Portugal star taking precautions

Cristiano Ronaldo cut short a training session with Portugal on Thursday, leaving the field with an ice pack over his left knee — indicating that his tendinitis may still be bothering the star forward.

Ronaldo trained with the rest of the team for about 15-20 minutes doing physical exercises but then did not take part in the rest of the session with full ball drills.

Instead, he stretched on his own and signed a few shirts for fans before going to sit on the bench. When he left, he had an ice pack over his left knee.

Ronaldo has been bothered by left leg injuries ahead of the World Cup, and was sidelined for two weeks with tendinitis in the knee and a thigh problem.

However, Portugal midfielder Joao Moutinho said there was nothing to worry about concerning Ronaldo's health.

"Ever since he started to train with us he has been 100 per cent like the rest of us," Moutinho said. "Everything is fine with him... The ice is normal after training."

Rangers holding on to Stanley Cup dreams

Still alive. Lundqvist's goaltending keeping Los Angeles from sealing the series

After feeling satisfied about his team's play in three losses to open the Stanley Cup final, New York Rangers coach Alain Vigneault could easily empathize with the Los Angeles Kings when the roles were reversed in Game 4.

"It was a real tough game, I think, for L.A.," Vigneault said. "It was probably their best game of the playoffs that they've played against us."

And it was a loss, as the Kings failed to finish off the sweep thanks to 40 saves by Henrik Lundqvist, one by Anton Stralman and one by a combination of snow built up in the crease and Derek Stepan. That the Rangers needed so much luck and strong goaltending only underscored just how dominant Los Angeles was.

Just don't tell the results-oriented Kings that. Even after players talked after wins about needing to play better, the self-criticism was turned

"At the end of the day, we weren't good enough to win," captain Dustin Brown said. "It's about finding a way to be better."

The chance to do that comes in Friday's Game 5 back in Los Angeles with the Kings still in command of the series and the cup waiting nearby.

After Game 4 at Madison Square Garden, it didn't feel as though the Kings were on the cusp of the title, like it did after they went up three games to none. All around the visiting locker-room there was talk about what areas needed to be better, from start to finish.

"We still probably could play better for a full game," fourth-line centre Mike Richards said. "It took us a little bit to get into it again for whatever reason." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Michael Jordan has reached billionaire status.

Forbes Magazine estimated Thursday that Jordan's equity as owner of the NBA's Charlotte Hornets is $416 million and his net worth outside of the team is $600 million.

Jordan purchased an additional stake in the Hornets in January of 2013. Just how much is unrevealed.

Reds even score

The Cincinnati Reds beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 on Thursday for a split of their four-game series.

The Reds won the last two games to finish a 5-5 homestand that left them stuck closer to the bottom of the NL Central than the top.

Alfredo Simon (9-3) gave up seven singles in eight innings, joining the Cardinals' Adam Wainwright as the NL's nine-game winners. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Don't get uptight if someone says something you disagree with. Stay calm, tell your side of the story and then listen to theirs. Don't be surprised if what they say makes sense.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You'll be in an impulsive mood today and there is a danger you might fall out with someone you should be on good terms with. Don't start a war of words just because you don't care for the way they do business.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Don't let others dictate to you because once they get the idea that you can be ordered about they will make your life a misery. Make sure they know you can bite as well as you bark.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

If you allow yourself to be talked into doing something you don't want to do today, you will regret it for weeks or months to come. There's no easy way to tell people you can't help them. Just say "no".

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The full moon could have you doing things and saying things that will cause problems of a romantic nature. Handle affairs of the heart with a great deal of care over the next 48 hours.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Because today's full moon cuts across a powerful angle of your chart you must be ready for those around you to overreact in some way. On the home front there will be times when logic goes out the window.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You seem a bit excitable but that's OK — most likely nothing bad will come of it. In fact this looks like being a good time for you, especially if you are travelling or planning a vacation.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

There is no reason you should not go out and have a good time but that does not mean you have to buy drinks for everyone. You have been far too generous of late.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

The full moon in your sign could see you acting out of character today and you may even make a fool of yourself. But what does it matter? It's all good, clean fun.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You may not be able to make sense of what is happening at the moment but don't worry. You aren't the only one who is having a hard time getting a grip on reality. Once the full moon fades all will be revealed.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The more you socialize now, the more likely it is you'll learn something to your advantage. Before the day is over you will be good friends with someone who shares your beliefs, ideals and taste for adventure.

Pisces

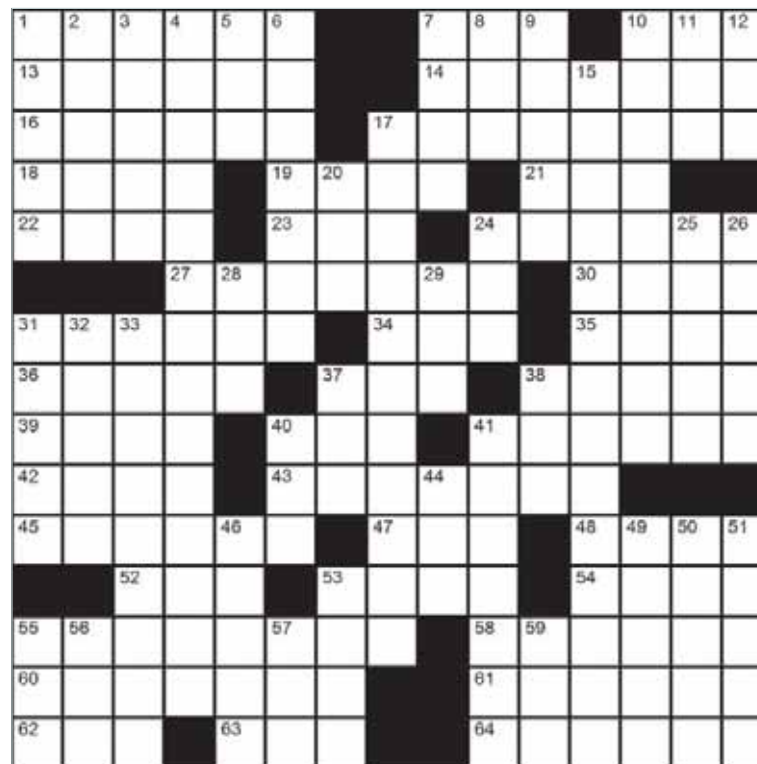

Feb. 20 - March 20

Resist the temptation to tell an employer what you really think of them today. It won't work out right. If you cannot say something nice then it might be wise to say nothing at all. Think of your future. SALLY BROMPTON
